
Recorder/Paul Fritz

Lyme disease warning

Randy Crochier, Gill Board of Health, and Deborah Coutinho, Shelburne Board of Health, install a Lyme disease prevention sign at the Fire Tower in Shelburne, with landowner Norman Davenport. The signs are being posted in parks, trails and recreation areas in the 10 towns of the Cooperative Public Health Service health district, a program of the Franklin Regional Council of Governments. The towns are: Buckland, Charlemont, Conway, Deerfield, Gill, Hawley, Heath, Leyden, Monroe and Shelburne. Grant funding for the signs was provided by the Massachusetts Department of Public Health. For more information on Lyme Disease: www.mass.gov/dph/tick